O Madro-Métis (In the Dark) Film by Lúcia Moura. It tells the story of two young Métis dancers. The first one is named Erika, who is a traditional dancer and has a group called "Sabor da

Vida." The second one, is the only daughter of a man who is a traditional healer. After the coup of March 11th, 1985, a period of war, repression and political terrorism followed the fall of the military dictatorship and Brazil was once again plunged into chaos. This dark period, known as "Repression 86," lasted nearly ten years until 1989, when the democratically-elected government of Tancredo Neves (1985-90) would bring the dark days of the late 1970s and early 1980s to an end. The list of film directors who were born between 1918 and 1928, were finally opening their eyes to the possibilities of cinema, in 1978. Among them, the following 13 did: 1. Walter Lima de Sousa (Melhor Inocência, 1978) 2. Fernando Carneiro (Meu Carro, 1978) 3. Roberto Farias (A Proa e a Gangue, 1978) 4. Hector Babenco (Beverly Hills, CBBC, 1978) 5.
